Tarrant County Reentry Coalition

3500 Noble Ave., Fort Worth, TX 76111 | (817) 632-6000 ext. 111 | <http://www.canetwork.org>

The Tarrant County Reentry Coalition is a group of concerned citizens and organizations that is working to help ex-offenders reenter society from incarceration in Tarrant County. Currently the group meets monthly to discuss areas of concern, including housing, employment, and family and the possible solutions to these issues. The coalition recently launched the Tarrant County Reentry Resource Directory, a website that provides resources for individuals, their families, and the professionals assisting ex-offenders to achieve successful reentry to Tarrant County.

Welcome Back Tarrant County

Re-Entry contact for all. Not only for parole, but for those discharged. For 9 years we meet every man and women at New Arrival orientation, on parole at parole offices. We are the bridge to help those returning to Tarrant County. We give direction to those needing employment, food, clothing and most all the immediate needs. Using zip codes we help show where the assistance is in near the person and to the family. (We are 501(c)3 Nonprofit) We see over 2,400 men and women each year. We have developed an extensive network to help. This network helps all that need help. We constantly update and seek out interested churches, ministries and companies. For more information please contact the organization by phone or via Facebook website.
